Just drove past Shoreham skatepark, which is now just not a skatepark it's where a bunch of toilets go to sit and smoke, crusties just smoking drinking monster energy and making a huge mess of the place. SHOREHAM SKATEPARK MORE LIKE SHOREHAM SIT AROUND WITH YOUR FRIENDS, FARTING ABOUT WITH YOUR FANNIES OUT. I'm out, too many bandannas and swags

Joe Crabtree There are many metal things out there that stand up to weather better than this bench. Even other metal bench's, bizarre right? And do you honestly expect me to believe the damaged caused by vandalism has allowed this to rust. Is it not in fact the other way around?

September 26 at 9:08pm · Like

Shoreham Skatepark No Joe..weather/ rust is not the issue here, vandalism has exposed the bare metal and has caused rust over time. Not the other way around. The benches are powder coated. They have been damaged intentionally.Please take a moment to study the photo. Do you see the whole bench rusting?

Would someone like to explain what happened to the notice board and its contents?

Also some retards have lit a fire in the bowl this week!

Because of this the lights are now switched off until further notice.

Callum Fairclough You realise this isn't by skateboarders, right? Punishing the kids who skate there is the worst option available. It will be the children who go to that skatepark to drink and snog their girlfriends and shout abuse at the other kids rather than who actually go there to skate/scoot/ride.

I have moaned about this before but nothing has been done, police not interested but council seem to be pro active in getting it sorted. Trouble is the location is not somewhere where the undesirables who mess it up at night cause a disturbance to local residents so no one knows or complains when they are there. What to do eh.....

Tong Poe The choice of turning of the lights has not been made likely.. its not to punish anyone.. weather and vandalism have played a huge part in this decision being made.. but we cant have the lights on attracting idiots when no one is skating. The lights have cost a small fortune to be put in place and run... thats why we raise the funds and look after what we got !
Hardly anyone understands the amount of hard work that is done by us old guys... we collect litter.. remove graffiti.. do constant maintenance... install bins and notice boards, benches.
We put on events and skate coaching.. constantly promoting the park and working hard to put new developments in place... we know that the litter and damage is not by skaters but no one seems to step up and do anything about it when were not around...
If you feel strongly about this decision wether you agree with it or not and want to be more involved with the park.. speak to Jelly or Andy..

- Tong Poe Your right Callum.. our commitment isnt in question ! and we feel that it isn't appreciated.
Its no good people complaining about conditions or having certain expectations if their not willing to step up.. it isnt skaters vandalising the park but there is a minority of skaters alongside other park users disrespecting the park...
Dropping and leaving litter.. spitting everywhere... drink.. drugs intimidation..etc.. etc.
But heres the issue.. the majority of skaters dont do anything about it.. but yet are quick to moan about it..
More skaters need to take ownership of their park... otherwise its going to get worse.
Feel free to pick up litter...
Tell others to bin it when dropped or left..
Report damage or ongoing vandalism.
Ask them to leave or make them feel unwelcome if their disrespecting the park or its users.. cause basically their not welcome...
We need to get these skaters onboard... cause when we've gone whos left to safeguard the futre of the park.. raise money.. do maintainence.. run events.. put proposals in place.. develop the park.. promote the park and locsl skating..this moment in time no one !
Its not a strange way to respond... its how it is !

- Shoreham Skatepark Thank you all for your comments. My concern is that there is not enough use of the lights/skatepark in the evenings at the moment and the Lurkers are abusing the park whilst we are not there. The Police are too busy and the council's resources are limited, this why we should work together to safe guard our skatepark.

- Callum Fairclough I wasn't aiming to disrespect any work anyone does. That wasn't what was at question because that's clearly respected by the huge support you get at the events set up (as an attendee myself)

I'm not here to cause a problem, I'm just telling you how it is and clearly people agree.

My opinion you can take it or leave it, and I guess I can do the same for yours.

Bringing up your hard work was not what was at question here, you have stated due to vandalism, that you've openly said is not skaters, the lights are turned off. I can't think of a worse idea. Rid the cliques, let the kids skate. There will always be bad guys, regardless.

Callum Fairclough Like I said, I have no problem I am just sticking up for the lads who I know are there nightly skating and have told me (as an older person) that they're intimidated by people riding mopeds about in there, smashing bottles etc. You can't expect kids to fight for a park, they're there to skate and chill.

Shoreham Skatepark I appreciate your comments Callum. I wish more users would communicate with us. I report all incidence to the council and the Police so I want to know about the mopeds and smashing bottles or any other incidences that occur. If we do not bother to report these A-holes then we have only ourselves to blame.

Stephen Nowak When I was young and skating at the Level we never had problems with non skating chav's. We owned our skate park, looked after it and if anyone who didn't skate came in they knew not to mess with our park. Maybe the younger skaters in Shoreham need to be taught what Pig City means. As for the older skaters you are working hard and have one of the best bowls in the country but may need to pass down to the younger skaters how to protect their prize property from idiots. Just a thought.

It would be so easy to set it up to police HQ. So they can see which muppets are wrecking your park!

Zach Bimson ANNOUNCEMENT: Just got off the phone with Andy, an arrangement has been made and the light will be on PERMANENTLY (on a timer that's dictated by the council, so don't get shitty when they go off at 9/10) TOMORROW (Thursday 13/03/14), they will go off at some point for maintenance/ re alignment but this will be at a later date.

Now is our chance to uphold our end of the deal and to take a little bit more of an initiative with regards to the obvious litter/ vandalism problem... its not hard to clean up after yourselves and just be a little more conscientious of the park that we've all been banging on about wanting to skate/ be a part of for ages.

If you see someone not picking up their litter/ using the park for purposes other than the ones it was intended for, its on all of our backs to speak up. Im not talking about the old school approach of trucking the cunt in the face for dropping his maccy'd wrapper, we've got to be setting a good example/ image for the park. Simply ask the person politely or approach one of the older skaters/riders and im sure they'll be able to assist.

Jelly, Andy and Co. do a lot of work to enable us lot to have somewhere like shoreham and as much as the lights going off wasn't a punishment there were some logical reasons behind having them off over the winter months that are abit more high level. (costs/ fund management ect, that in mind ill be setting up a donation page for anyone that really is that bothered about helping) communication was an issue for alot of people on here and ive relayed that message, the more we do together as a community the better chance we have of getting improvements made to the park but thats not going to happy without some more effort from more than just a couple of the older dudes.

NOW WITH ALL THE BORING SHIT OUT THE WAY - LETS SKATE
